AUSTRIAN HAS EARLY LEAD IN ALPINE RACES

New York, Jan. 12 [Special]—Heini Messner of Austria has taken the early lead for the new world cup of skiing after the slalom and giant slalom competition in Berchtesgaden, Germany, last week-end.

No United States skier is in the first 15 racers in points for the world cup. The best American performance in Berchtesgaden was an 11th place by Jim Huega in the giant slalom, but he was almost four seconds off the winning time.
