Clear Track for Ski Experts

CLEAR TRACK for ski experts! Steep "Wingover" run, at new Buffalo Park ski area near Algonquin, is checked for safety and snow condition by ski school Director Adolph A. Schumann Jr. (below), and Bob Donahue (left), ski instructor, before ski school classes begin. Buffalo Park makes its own snow; has floodlighted slopes for night skiing.

New Skier Has A Lot of Fun

NO ONE has more fun—or is busier—than a new skier! This typical group at Buffalo Park, near Algonquin, concentrates on the mild slopes of the beginners' hill. Bigger more challenging runs at the new ski area await them as their skiing skills improve.
