

Outdoor Sports in Full Swing In State With Snow, Cold Weather

Facilities for This Season Expanded; 3 New Ski Area Added

By UNITED PRESS

The outdoor sports that call for a good layer of snow and cold weather are in full swing in Wisconsin.

Thousands of persons take part each year in winter sports, and again this season the facilities for enjoyment of them have been expanded in Wisconsin. While skiing, the most spectacular, gets the bulk of attention, there is plenty of activity in such sports as ice boating, skating, ice fishing, tobogganing, snowshoeing and a new one—ski-joring. This is something like water skiing, only done on the snow with a horse supplying the power.

Among the new facilities are three new skiing areas — Sheltered Valley in Oneida county near Three Lakes; Ski-Mac in St. Croix county near Somerset; and Touchett Recreation Area near Fond du Lac.

The Big Rib Mountain ski hill, one of the most popular, opened last week. It was one of the earliest openings for the long ski tow there in years. Rib Mountain, in Marathon county, has seven trails and one large open slope with a 3,600 foot run.

Public transportation is available to most of the ski resorts and many hotels and resorts are found that specialize in putting up tired skiers on overnight jaunts.

Pool Resigns As Ram Coach

Quits Los Angeles Job for Team's Good

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hampton Pool resigned Friday night as head coach of the Los Angeles Rams pro football team, saying in an announcement that he was doing so "for the good of the team."

Pool was not available for comment. Neither was Rams' President Dan Reeves. The brief announcement came from Pete Rozelle, Rams publicity man.

Pool completed his third season as head man last Sunday. Immediately after that game, in which the Rams whipped the Green Bay Packers 35-27, his four assistant coaches quit.

Olivar in Choice

A few days later Pool's first lieutenant, Johnny Sauer, accepted the athletic directorship and head coaching job at the Citadel, Charleston, S.C.

With Pool and his entire slate of assistants out of the picture, speculation began immediately on two possible successors. One is Jordan Olivar, who has one year
