In circle above, Ted Wood, president of the Omaha Ski Club, jumps high off the ground in a "gelandstapung."
Skiers are pulled to the hilltop in Hummel park by the ski tow which runs parallel to the ski run.

All set for a push off is Miss Antoinette Heame, physical education instructor at Brownell Hall, Miss Heame, who is spending her first year in Omaha, has frequently tramped over ski trails in the White mountains of New Hampshire.—World-Herald Photos by Elmer K. Langevin.
