

Cornell Lions Build Ski Tow

CORNELL (Special) — Construction of a ski tow for Baldy Mountain has been completed by the Cornell Lions Club.

The mountain is on land owned by Robert Kendall and is located about six miles northwest of Cornell on CTH E. Part of the slope will be set aside for skiing and tobogganing.

A warming house has been constructed and the Lions Club will operate a food concession. The area will be open weekends.